

The Water Feature

Ripples Wind and Water
 Passive Water Feature
 Downspout & Sculpture
 Hardscape & Runnel

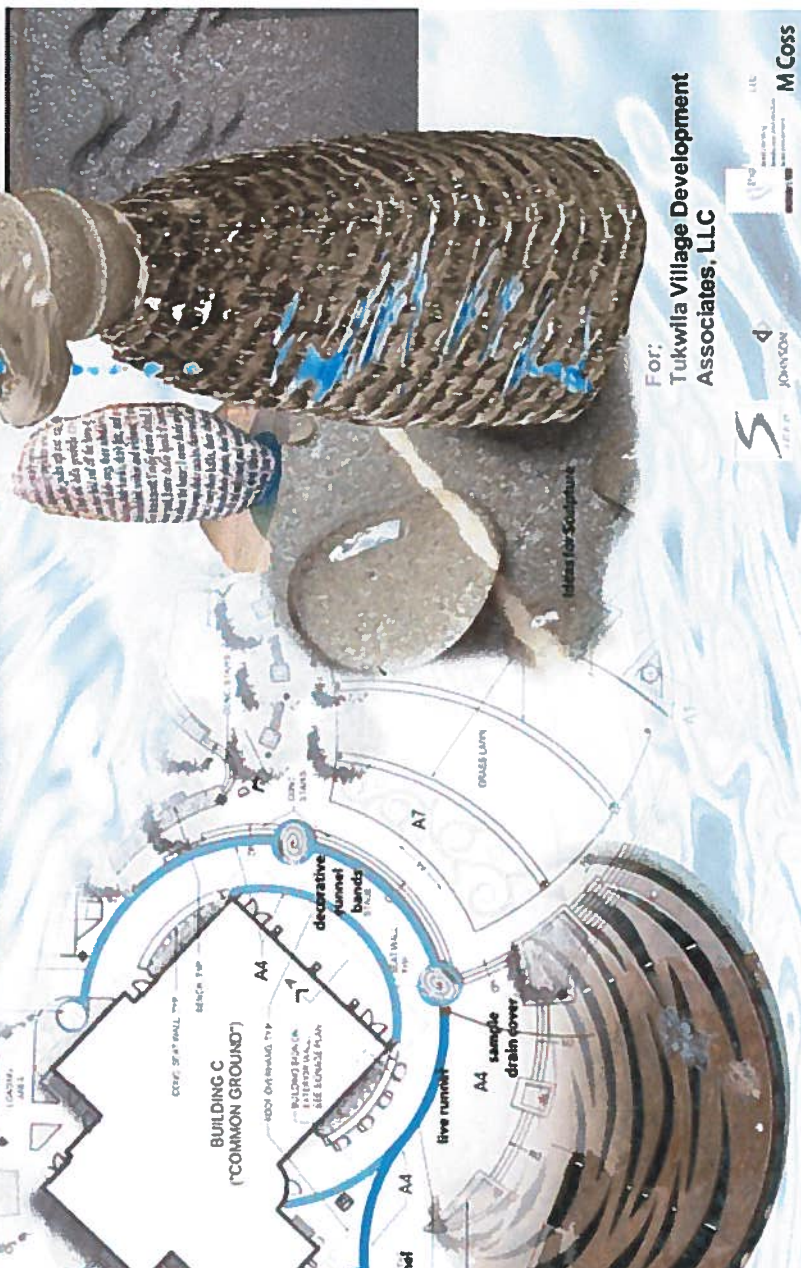

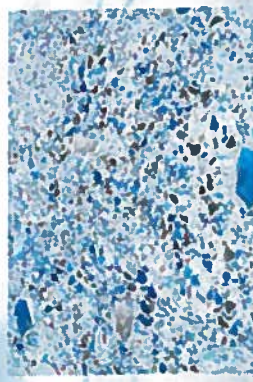

Example of a Passive Water Feature

Water Feature:
 Create a signature sculpture integrating the spiral imagery and wind mythology into a passive water feature incorporate a glass/stone seeded hardscape runnel

Hardscape Samples

sculpture:
 passive water feature
 tied into downspout and runnel

For:
 Tukwila Village Development
 Associates, LLC

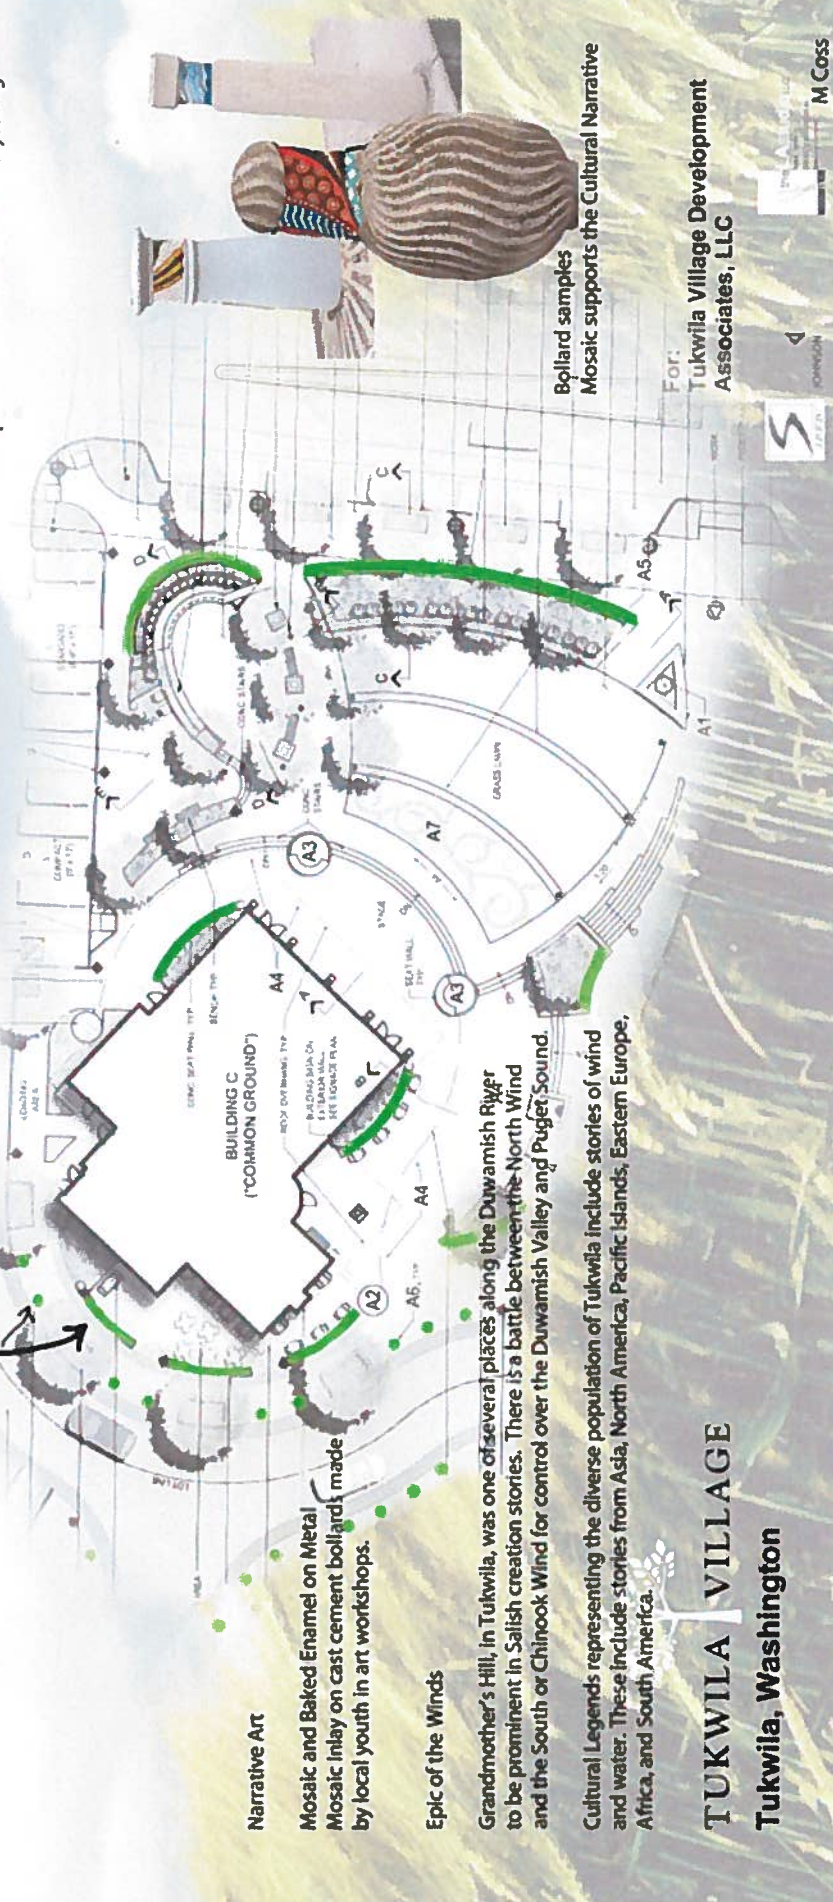

Epic of the Winds

Local History & Culture
Spirals, the Wind, & Mixing Cultures
Narrative Imagery through Artwork

Examples of Mosaic and Enamel Storytelling

Potential
Decorative Surfaces

Narrative Art

Mosaic and Baked Enamel on Metal Mosaic inlay on cast cement bollards made by local youth in art workshops.

Epic of the Winds

Grandmother's Hill, in Tukwila, was one of several places along the Duwamish River to be prominent in Salish creation stories. There is a battle between the North Wind and the South or Chinook Wind for control over the Duwamish Valley and Puget Sound.

Cultural legends representing the diverse population of Tukwila include stories of wind and water. These include stories from Asia, North America, Pacific Islands, Eastern Europe, Africa, and South America.

TUKWILA VILLAGE
Tukwila, Washington

Bollard samples
Mosaic supports the Cultural Narrative

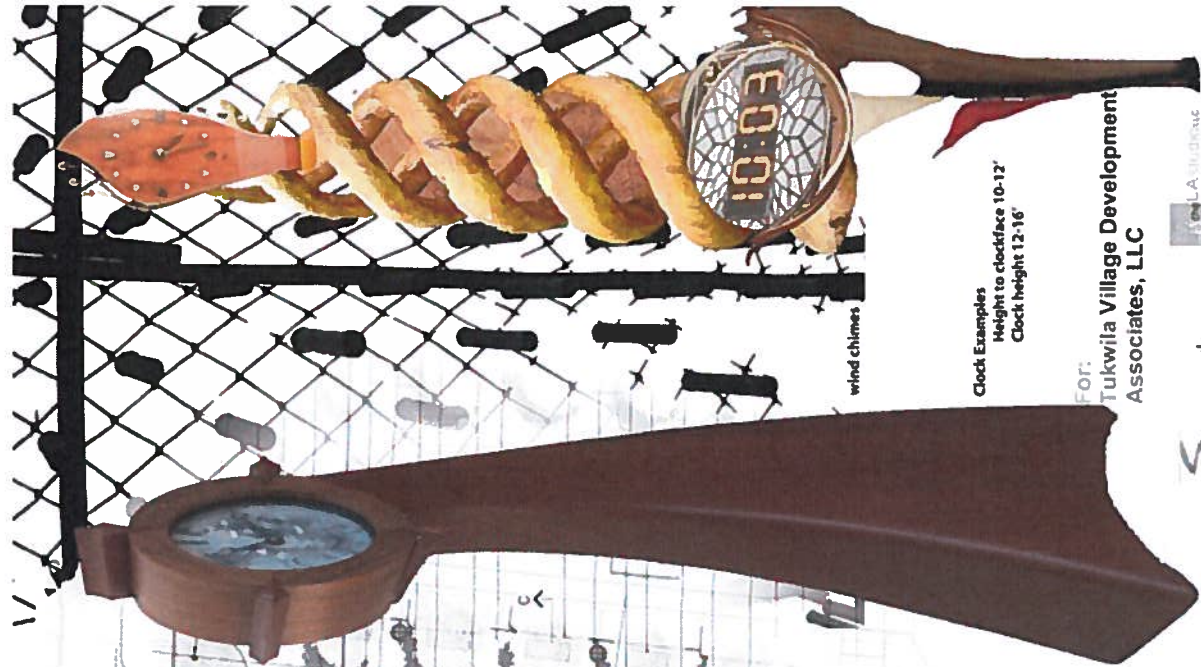

For:
Tukwila Village Development
Associates, LLC

The Clocktower

Time Reclaimed

The wind, the spiral, the clock, wood rings of time and reclaimed redwood from the site

Integrate the reclaimed Redwood as a primary component of the Clock tower

In Feng Shui, wind chimes are believed to bless your home with prosperity and happiness.

Hang a set by your front door so that good energy will be brought in every time the wind blows. Integrate chimes into the entry of the site at the clock tower.

TUKWILA VILLAGE

Tukwila, Washington

Clock Examples
Height to clockface 10-12'
Clock height 12-16'

FOR:
Tukwila Village Development
Associates, LLC

