THIRD QUARTER CRIME STATISTICS

Calls for Service by Month
Comparison of 2021 to 2000-2020

Calls for service and case reports are generally within range, with cases being only slightly below previous months but mostly in check with other third quarters overall.

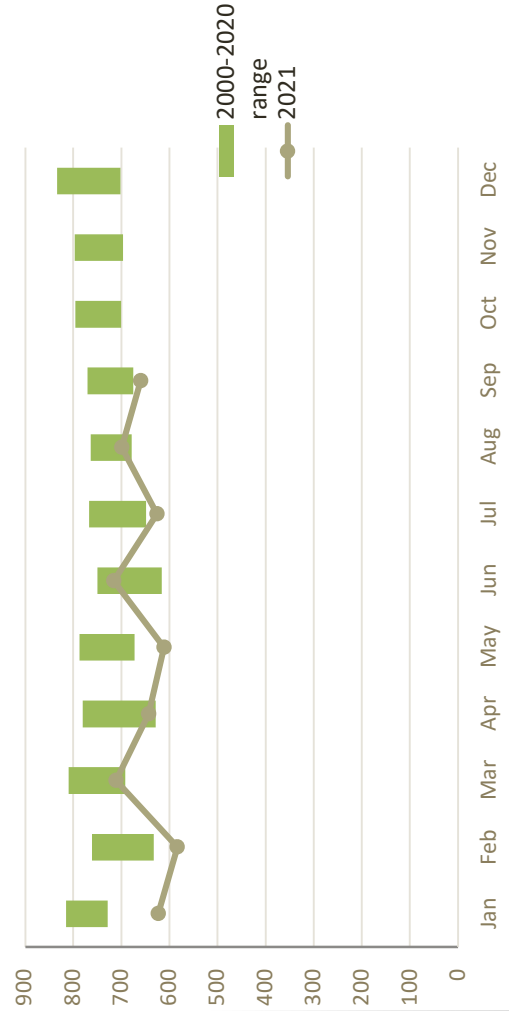

Robbery and residential burglary are both still on track for lower than usual totals this year, with residential burglary likely to total around 25, down from a peak of around 200/year in 2008-2011. This is a significant decrease, especially considering how personal a residential burglary feels to victims.

Aggravated assaults are up this quarter, primarily due to an increase in the T-5 district in September. Of the 11 aggravated assault cases in September, seven were in the T-5.

Thefts from vehicle continue to be high, primarily due to catalytic converter thefts. Without those thefts, the numbers would be about the same as previous years.
